EXBO developed its ePoster system as part of a suite of related systems, including abstract management, delegate registration, and stand-booking. The ePoster system can be used modularly for an event, or organisations can opt for full end-to-end management of the entire abstract process by EXBO staff.

Key Benefits of Using ePosters

Implementing a digital ePoster system provides multiple advantages over traditional paper displays, enhancing both the attendee experience and organisational efficiency:

- Free up floor and wall space. By utilising digital displays instead of physical poster boards, valuable venue space is conserved.
- Create a tidier, professional environment. The system ensures consistent formatting and easy navigation.

- Enable interaction. Features such as zooming, searching, emailing, and comments are possible, which paper formats cannot offer.
- Allow delegates to browse posters at their own pace. Attendees can revisit posters at any time during the event, or email it to themselves to study later.
- Offer an eco-friendly option. The system results in lower printing costs and eliminates transport and storage requirements associated with physical posters.

Flexible Deployment and Pricing

The EXBO software platform, which includes the ePoster system, is designed for flexibility in deployment and billing.

Pay-Per-Use Model (Pay as you go) The EXBO software operates on a pay-per-use model. This means there are no annual fees, no sign-up fees, and no minimum number of uses. You only pay the fee to use the software for each specific event. Fees are scaled to ensure affordability for both small and large conferences.

Integration and Standalone Use While EXBO offers a full platform for abstract management, the software is billed per event, allowing it to be used to enhance existing conference systems or utilised as a standalone solution for digital poster management. Full support services are also available for organisations that require assistance managing the system.
